What it takes to earn the GAF Master Elite® Contractor Badge

Every GAF Master Elite® Contractor is insured, licensed (in states where required), has good credit, and is in good standing with the Better Business Bureau.

Only 2% of roofers in North America are invited to become GAF Master Elite® Contractors. That's right. We cannot apply; we need to be invited.[1]

Your connection to the best GAF warranties

Workmanship coverage is an important differentiator when choosing a residential roof warranty. Standard product warranties often include the labor required to repair or replace a covered component due to manufacturing defect, but don't cover mistakes made by the contractor.

GAF entrusts Master Elite® Contractors like me to offer you their strongest warranties, including certain enhanced warranties that provide workmanship coverage.
